In Tarnished, there are no classes and level-ups. You must think of the game as if you were a team leader. Teamwork is required to overcome the challenges that arise. In the game, if you decide to press the D-pad to go a certain way, your character will automatically move in that direction. But by directing the movement of your character, you can decide how your character will act. It is a game in which the choice of where to move your character is the beginning of an adventure, where the destination is often far away. By combining elements from the action RPG genre and the dungeon RPG genre, Tarnished creates a game that is as different from other fantasy action RPGs as your imagination allows. ♦What are the features of the Web
